DISCOVERY OF ANCIENT ROMAN RELICS.

A discovery of ancient Roman relics was recently made at Ofen, in Austria, consisting of a stone coffin nearing the following inscription:—4P. M. Demo atterns et perpetus securitati, permittente patrono, Alfus Vitalis Libertus epa vivus sibifecit." A stripe of leaf ornaments, eight neches broad runs along each side of the inscription. On the right stands a barefooted servant in a long mantle, holding a plate before him containing a bird. On the left is a man in a tunic, tight pants and short boots holding a glass between the fingers of the right land. In the left hand he holds the iolds of a plate or mantle. Before him stands a smoking altar, with a round cake on the top. Around the contin were found arabesques, grave lamps, a small pot and several coins. Acove the Roman contin lay a stratum of Christian wooden contins, with crosses, pictures, saints, &c. discovery of ancient Roman relics was recently
